

PHP - Array

Arrays are variables which can hold more than one value at a time. Arrays are useful when you want to store a group of data. Arrays are variables which can hold more than one value at a time. Arrays are useful when you want to store a group of data. the following type array in php.

Indexed Array

Associative Array

Multidimensional Array

The above all type array are describe into details click on link icon to read full topic and also click on next button and learn indexed array with syntax and example.