Python - Break Statements

In python break statements can alter the flow of a normal loop,loops iterate over a block of code until test expression is false.the following example of break statements.

Example

for val in "bharat":
        if val == "r":
                break;
                print(val);
```

Output

```
b
h
a
```
